The SASH North Ryde hospital was established in 2007 and is located just 20 minutes north of Sydney's CBD, in New South Wales, Australia. Our team provides exceptional care to over 40,000 patients each year across our ever-increasing network. Having recently opened our fourth hospital, SASH is continuing to invest in our team with the latest equipment and technology. SASH provides the most comprehensive, 24-hour on-site service available in Australia, giving our team and patients an unparalleled experience. The North Ryde Hospitals recent refurbishment includes 6 brand new theatres, a large surgery prep area and new ward/treatment areas, to ensure the best possible nursing care, with support from 4 anaesthetists. As well as anaesthesia and ophthalmology, our specialist departments include internal medicine, neurology and neurosurgery, surgery and rehabilitation, oncology (including radiation oncology), dermatology, diagnostic imaging (including MRI), emergency & critical care and exotics.

Our Ophthalmology team is well equipped with diagnostic and surgical equipment, including Bausch & Lomb phacoemulsification unit, ultrasound unit (and separate UBM), Zeiss operating microscopes, Dioret laser cyclophotocoagulation unit, cryosurgical equipment and ERG units.

At SASH, we believe that the most advanced technology is not where investment stops with training the next generation also important, and we have internship and residency programs in many of the specialist services, including ophthalmology. We also strive to provide our team with tools for personal development and SASH has invested in an extensive leadership program across the veterinary and nursing teams throughout our network.
